

Release note

Problem creation dates

Release date: 26 April 2016

Small changes that make your life easier! Problems in Sequence Jobs now display the date when they were created.

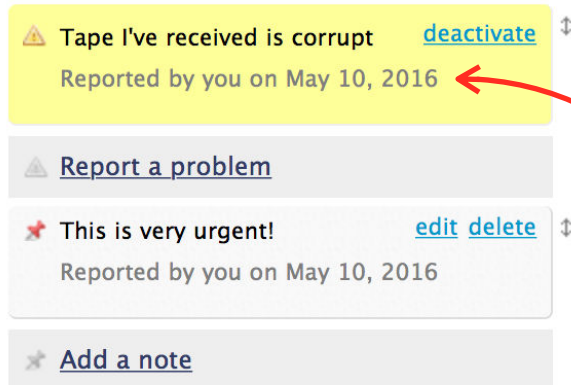

This note describes what is changing in full, and as usual you can contact support or your technical account manager for further clarification.

Problem creation dates

As Notes always did, Problems in Jobs now display the date when they were created:

This information has always been available in the Timeline of the Job, but we thought that, like with Notes, it's more handy to have it available right where the Problem is. That way, for instance, you'll be able to see at glance how recently a Problem was reported.

A small change that we hope will make your life easier.
